SHOEMAKERS' WAX.

The Surprising Properties of This Peculiar Substance.

One of the most apt illustrations ever made by Lord Kelvin was his likening the luminiferous ether to a mass of shoemakers' wax. What Lord Kelvin said of shoemakers' wax may be tested by any boy in a manner that will astonish his playmates First let it be said that the ether penetrates all space. It is as rigid as steel and yet so flexible that it does not retard the passage of planets through space in the least. It is an invisible substance which travels in waves through all things. Now, to illustrate the nature of such a paradoxical material Lord Kelvin searched everywhere and at last concluded that shoemakers' wax represented it best. He made tests, and this is what he found:

He melted some wax in a common glass tumbler. After it had hardened he tried to thrust a lead pencil through it. It would not go. Then he placed a coin on the surface of the wax and left it there for several days. When he again visited it the coin had sunk to the bottom of the glass. The wax had closed over it, and by lifting up the glass and looking through the bottom he could see the coin lying there. Had the wax been as deep as a well the coin would have gone on sinking until it reached the bottom. This proved that the wax would conform only to very slow movements. If he had tried to push it too fast it would have resisted him.

An idea struck the scientist. If the wax acted like this toward the coin, how would it treat an object which floated? He accordingly placed a cork in a tumbler and poured hot shoemakers' wax upon it. The wax hardened with the cork at the bottom. Yet when Lord Kelvin looked at the bottom of the glass in a day or two he found the cork had disappeared. It was somewhere in the mass of wax and probably rising very slowly, but surely, toward the top. Sure enough, after a given period of time the cork peeped above the surface of the hard wax, and finally it rose to a point where it remained half imbedded in the wax, just as it would have done in a glass of water. It rose no higher than this, however, and a corkscrew probably would not have pulled it from the wax. Yet its own buoyancy had raised it up from the bottom through what seemed an impenetrable mass of wax.

This, in fact, is the peculiarity of shoemakers' wax—that it resists all sudden or quick movements, but is highly susceptible to very slow and prolonged pressure. If you pressed a flatiron hard down on a lump of wax on a table it is probable you would make no impression on it, but if you left that iron resting on the wax for a day or two you would find the lump flattened out under the iron. So curious is this property of the wax that tuning forks have been cast from pieces of it. These forks were capable of vibration, giving a musical note and being set going by vibration from another tuning fork, yet when one of them was laid across the open mouth of a jar it slowly collapsed and fell into the jar in a shapeless, sticky mass.

Where Parliament Failed.

According to all accounts, the Cameron highlanders militia are a fine body of men physically. Not long ago four of them occupied the least crowded seat in a full compartment on a Scotland railway. Just as the train was moving off a diminutive little clergyman jumped into the compartment and tried to edge himself in between two of the highlanders. Not finding it very comfortable, he turned to the one on his right and said: "Sit up, please. You know that, according to act of parliament, the seat holds five." The highlander looked at him for a moment and then replied: "That may be a' richt enough for your kind, sir, but shairly ye canna' blame me for no bein' constructed according to act of parliament!"

Contagion and Infection.

A contagious disease is one in which the disease producing organism goes direct from the person having the disease to a person who has not the disease without passing through an intermediary medium, as in tuberculosis, for example. Malaria, on the other hand, is an infectious disease, because the organism which produces it is taken from a person by a mosquito, reproduces itself in the mosquito and is transmitted by the mosquito which may never have been in contact with the person by whom the original organism was given off. — New York American.

Another Way.

A well known London physician was invited out to the country for some shooting; but, although he tried several times, he could not hit a single rabbit.

"I'm very unlucky," he exclaimed. "I've killed nothing all day."

"Never mind," said his host. "Write the rabbits one of your prescriptions."

Foul.

"Foul tactics," declared the halfback.

"What's the trouble now?" demanded the referee.

"I tried a kick for the stomach, but this fellow blocked it with his head."—Kansas City Journal.

Good Behavior.

Employer—Why were you discharged from your last place? Applicant—For good behavior. Employer—What do you mean by that? Applicant—They took three months off my sentence.—Cleveland Leader.

PLUCKING BATS.

A French Industry That Is Linked With the Restaurants.

"I plucked bats in Paris once at 4 francs a day," said a sailor. "Bats hibernate in the winter What I mean to say is that they fall into a kind of drugged sleep In this here sleep, clingin' together in big, black, soft bunches, they hang from the roofs of caves or the inside of chimbleys See In' I was down on my luck I was studyin' art in them days a restaurateur over in the Latin quarter, or Cart-shay as we used to say, guv me a job of bat pluckin'.

"He showed me the ropes the first day I soon got on to it. It was dead easy Just go into a cave, you know, locate a bunch of bats and then pluck 'em one at a time like grapes and drop 'em in your burlap bag All that winter I'd set out from the Cart-shay with my big bag in the mornin' and on toward night you'd see me staggerin' back along the Bull Meesh, as we called the Boulevard Michel, loaded down with hibernatin' bats

"'You don't feed these to your clientele, Jacques?' I said to the boss one night.

"'Maybe—oh, yes,' said he 'They always figure in our farfamed one franc dinner'

"I gave him a reproachful look

"'Rat's meat is excellent,' he says 'The meat is pink and very fine Fried in butter with a parsley sauce, the gourmets in the Cafe Anglais could never never tell it from venison.'

"'You wouldn't catch me eatin' it, says I.

"He chuckled and nudged me in the ribs

"'No?' says he. 'No? And yet, mon vieux, the bat largely figures in our excellent five sou navarin that you so dearly love!'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

LINCOLN'S IRONY.

His Reply to a Petition For a Dishonest Boy's Pardon.

The Hon. Alexander H Rice once paid a visit to President Lincoln on behalf of a Boston boy who had been imprisoned for robbing his employer's letters After reading the petition, signed by many citizens of Boston, the president stretched himself in his chair and asked Mr Rice if he had met a man going downstairs.

"Yes, Mr President," replied Mr. Rice."

"His errand," said the president, "was to get a man pardoned out of the penitentiary, and now you have come to get a boy out of jail" Then, with characteristic humor, Mr Lincoln continued: "I'll tell you what it is, we must abolish these courts or they will be the death of us I thought it bad enough that they put so many men in the penitentiary for me to get out, but if they have now begun on the boys and the jails and have roped you into the delivery let's after them!

"They deserve the worst fate," he went on, "because, according to the evidence that comes to me, they pick out the very best men and send them to the penitentiary, and this present petition shows they are playing the same game on the boys and sending them all to jail The man that you met on the stairs affirmed that his friend in the penitentiary is a most exemplary citizen, and Massachusetts must be a happy state if her boys out of jail are as virtuous as this one appears to be who is in.

"Yes, down with the courts and deliverance to their victims, and then we can have some peace!"—Boston Post.

The French Schoolboy's Hard Day.

French children are often on their way to school a little after 7 o'clock in the morning If they have concluded their lessons by 9 o'clock in the evening it is only by dint of great application. Young men studying for the higher professions have appointments with their tutors at 5 o'clock in the morning in summer time; otherwise they cannot accomplish the mountain of work that lies before them In all branches of art the labor of the tyro is immense. At the conservatory the strenuous life is carried to a point which provokes the astonishment even of laborious German students.—Pall Mall Gazette.

How High a Tiger Can Jump.

For the benefit of the prospective big game hunters a correspondent finally disposes of the theory that a tiger is unable to jump to any height from all fours. He records that he took refuge in a tree from a particular tiger The beast, however, jumped up to him, "like an india rubber ball, a good seven feet," and it was only "by letting go with my right and ramming both barrels down his mouth that I did not have a very bad time of it."

The moral evidently is that when avoiding a tiger it is necessary to find a tree with its lowest branch at least sixteen feet from the ground.—India Field.

Compensation.

"I must have an iron bedstead," declared a tourist at an inn.

"Sir," answered Boniface, "I am sorry there ain't a single iron bedstead in the 'ouse. But you will find the mattresses very nice and 'ard, sir!"—London Tit Bits.

A Concession.

She—You don't allow me to do anything I want! If it goes on much longer I shall go home to mamma. He—That I will allow you to do.—Fliegende Blatter.

A Hill and a Pill.

What is the difference between a hill and a pill? One is hard to get up, and the other is hard to get down

The boughs that bear most hang the lowest.—Virgil.

ORIENTAL SERVANTS.

All Around Ability of the Indispensable "Boy" In India.

In these days of loud wailing about the haughty domestic, exorbitant wages and small returns it is soothing to recall the efficiency and submissive service of the oriental servant.

In India the indispensable "boy" does everything—"boy" being a generic name regardless of age or native dignity—receiving in remuneration the equivalent of $12 to $14 a month at the most. He buys your railroad tickets, checks your luggage, settles the clamors of luggage coolies, gives your tips and shoos away the hordes of beggars, telegraphs to hotels for your rooms and takes care of them when you get there, makes the bed, brings the afternoon tea, stands behind your chair at table and serves you, brings your account when you leave and wrangles for you over its inevitable extortions.

At the dak bungalows he forages for your meals and, if necessary, cooks them. He produces washmen, sewing men and all sorts of dealers in everything on demand. He makes up your bed on sleeping cars and replenishes your supply of ice and soda. He runs your errands, cleans your boots and hats, darns your stockings and mends your clothes.

When you walk abroad, he attends you and directs you to the bazaars where you will be robbed least, receiving his commission later from an appreciative proprietor.

For every rupee intrusted to him for general expenditure he renders an account, and though he doubtless robs you gently he does not let others do it (and it is distinctly advantageous to be robbed by one person rather than a score).

He is silent and noiseless, salaams whenever you speak to him and never enters your presence with his shoes on or his turban off.

And finally, his multifarious day ended, he wraps himself in his shawl and sleeps across your threshold.—New York Tribune.

SAW THE GHOST.

A Story That Stood the Test of a Court of Law.

As a circumstantial ghost story and one that stood the cold scrutiny of a court of law Booty's case is without a parallel. The date given is 1688, when Mrs. Booty brought an action for slander against one Captain Barnaby for what he had said of her late husband. According to an extract from a journal produced in court, dated Friday, May 15, 1687, the captain on that day went ashore with a large party of friends to shoot rabbits upon Stromboli, the island off Italy, which, from its ever burning crater, is called "the lighthouse of the Mediterranean." At about 3:30 in the afternoon two men were seen running toward the volcano, which was emitting flames. Captain Barnaby then exclaimed, "Lord bless me, the foremost is old Booty, my next door neighbor." They then vanished in the flames, a fact of which every one present took note.

Upon Captain Barnaby's return to England he learned that "old Booty" had died just about the time of the strange occurrence at Stromboli. He then made the remark which was the subject of the action, that he "had seen old Booty running into the flames of hell pursued by the devil." Mrs. Booty claimed £1,000 as damages, and the case came on in the king's bench before the chief justice, Sir Robert Wright. For the defense, in addition to the testimony of Captain Barnaby and his friends, old Booty's clothes were brought into court and identified by several witnesses as being similar to those worn by the foremost man who ran into the crater—even to the peculiar buttons on the coat. The judge was so impressed by this evidence that he said: "Lord have mercy upon me and grant that I may never see what you have seen. One, two or three may be mistaken, but not thirty." And so Booty's widow lost the day, and the case remains, perhaps, as the only judicially accepted ghost story on record.—London Chronicle.

Sound In the Air.

A writer in the Strand Magazine describes the astonishment he experienced when riding over London in a balloon at a height of more than half a mile he heard the deafening roar of the great city beneath him as it could not be heard when on the ground. The noise, even at that height, was so harsh and intense as to be painful to the ear. How perfect a sound conductor the air is was shown when the balloon drifted far over the city to a wooded part of the country, where the murmur of the leaves moved by the wind, half a mile below, was distinctly heard.

Careful For Others.

"No," said the candid kleptomaniac; "when I'm arrested for pilfering I never give my real name. It would compromise too many people"

"Indeed! And what is your name?" inquired the magistrate.

"John Smith."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Chip of the Old Block.

Crimsonbeak—Owen Moore's son was in to see me today.

Yeast—Indeed! Doesn't he remind you of his father?

"Very much. He wanted to borrow $5."—Yonkers Statesman.

Particular Points.

"Shall I touch out the wrinkles in your face?" asked the photographer.

"By all means," answered the elderly beau. "And also those, if there be any, in my trousers."—Kansas City Journal.

MUCH DREADED FOREST FIRES

State Forester Issues Warning to Campers and Hunting Parties

State Forester Geo. B. Lull has sent out the following communication with a request for its publication, which gives some interesting information concerning the law and the punishment of those who start a forest fire:

The attention of all persons who inhabit the forest or brush-covered areas of California is called to the following provisions of the State Forest Laws relating to forest fires

Under Statutes 1907, Chapter 536, it is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $500, or imprisonment not less than fifteen days or more than six months, or both, to commit any of the following acts:

1 To build a fire even on your own land without first securing a written permit from a duly appointed fire warden, except camp fires, which may be built on unenclosed lands if the owner has not forbidden their building in any way, and provided the builder of a camp fire totally extinguishes it before leaving. Fires may be built without permit to facilitate redwood logging and backfires may be set in a careful manner to stop the spread of a fire then actually burning.

2. To set fire on the lands of another excepting camp fires built under the conditions outlined above.

3. To allow a fire, unlawfully set, to escape from the control of the person having charge thereof, or to spread to the lands of another

4. It is unlawful to use any engine or boiler, burning fuel other than oil, unless the engine or boiler is equipped with adequate devices to prevent the escape of fire from any part.

5. Also to refuse to obey the summons of any State Fire Warden to fight fire.

The heavy rainfall of last winter stimulated a strong growth of grass and other vegetation. This has now become dry and highly inflammable. If a fire is started it will be almost impossible to check it owing to the great amount of fuel. For this reason it is doubly necessary to pay strict attention to the forest laws during this summer. The annual loss to the State from forest fires amounts into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, yet most of the fires are started carelessly. Make it a point to obey the forest laws yourself and to support your Fire Warden. If you have evidence to show that the forest laws have been violated, place it in the hands of your District Attorney or notify the State Forester at Sacramento. All violators of the forest laws will be prosecuted vigorously.

A majority of the hops of the county have already been taken by the dealers, and those that remain, as intimated will be held for a further advance. The advance in prices has had a tendency to raise the hopes of the growers considerably and they are feeling better than they have since the time when "the bottom dropped out of the market."

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

R. V. Pierce M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

The above is the title of a breezy semi-weekly newspaper, the initial number of which made its appearance in Petaluma one day last week. It is published by Mrs. Anna M. Reed, formerly of Ukiah and a newspaper woman of experience. It has been decided to have at least seven fine races, which will be participated in by many speedy horses. The track and grounds are being put in fine condition.

Flag Raising at Flowery District School

A patriotic event took place on Friday of last week at the school house at Agua Caliente. Mrs. Murphy presented to the school a beautiful American flag. The presentation was made in the presence of the school children and a group of parents and friends.

Mr. Murphy gave a brief address, in which he urged the boys to be proud of their flag and to remember that in no country would they be treated as well as under their own starry banner.

When the flag was flung to the breeze the "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by Mrs. Murphy's grand-daughter, Miss Mamie Althoff, the children joining in the chorus. Three rousing cheers were then given by the school children for the flag, which was followed by patriotic hymns, in which all took part.

SONOMA GRAMMAR SCHOOL STATISTICS

Principal Prestwood's Report Shows a Largely Increased Attendance of Scholars

The Sonoma Grammar School, under the able principalship of Prof. Jesse Prestwood, for the year just closed shows a largely increased attendance of scholars, and the school has never been in better condition for usefulness than at present. Principal Prestwood and his corps of teacheas are both able and willing instructors and have well-earned the confidence and esteem of both scholars and patrons of the school.

A brief summary of Principal Prestwood's annual school report for the year ending June 30, 1909, is as follows:

Whole number of pupils in attendance during year	166
State enrollment	146

It will be composed of W. D. Reynolds, president of the Santa Rosa Bank; John Strong, the well known farmer and granger of Bennett Vrlley, and George T. Trowbridge, the well known real estate broker of Santa Rosa. It was agreed that these gentlemen are endowed with splendid qualifications for the commission.

The Closing Exercises of the Presentation Convent School

The twenty-seventh closing exercises of Presentation Convent school in Union Hall were attended by one of the largest audiences ever seen in Sonoma. The large hall was packed from stage to door by the friends and patrons of the school. The scholars acquitted themselves admirably and showed thorough training on the part of the school. The address of Rev. Father Leahy, pastor of St. Francis Church, was listened to with marked attention.

Following the literary program refreshments were served by the Catholic ladies and there was dancing.

Rain Comes When Not Needed

The first drop of rain that has fallen in this valley for two months and two weeks fell at an early hour Thursday morning. It was only a slight sprinkle and did no good or harm. This is the first season since the valley was settled by the Americanos in the early Spanish days when the tillers of the soil were not blessed with spring showers. However, notwithstanding the drouth of the past three months hay, grain and pasturage suffered but little, in fact the hay and grain crop is actually above the average of other seasons.

NEW HOTEL WILL BE OPENED HERE

Robin Corner Changes Hands—It will be Improved and Leased as a Hotel

The old Robin corner, which is of historical interest, has changed hands and the new owner will improve the property and lease it for hotel purposes.

The property has been purchased by Felice Rovai from Messrs. C. Dal Poggetto, Julius Fochetti, L. Quartaroli and the Aguillon heirs, who will lease it for a term of years to L. Quartaroli, who recently disposed of his winery and other property in the eastern part of town to Wm. H. Daly.

The Robin corner in the early days was known as the El Dorado Hotel, and for years was conducted by the late Tony Oakes, whose fame as a caterer was known far and wide. Here in days long past many notable characters were entertained. When Oakes closed the old El Dorado in the sixties, it became the property of Eugene Robin, who died ten or twelve years ago. It then reverted to his heirs who in turn disposed of it to J. T. MacQuiddy and was transferred by him to its present owners.

It is the intention of Mr. Rovai to convert the building into a modern hotel as soon as the deed passes.

New Tags for Hunters and the Law

Deputy County Clerk Jack Ford informs us that 4000 hunting license tags have been received from Sacramento at the County Clerk's office.

As the game licenses issued last year will become void after June 30th, when the new licenses will be issued to hunters for another year upon the payment of a fee of $1.00

For the benefit of local sportsmen we publish the following rules laid down by Chief Deputy Vogelsang of the California Fish and Game Commission. The new hunting license law becomes effective July 1st, 1909. Hunting licenses can be obtained from the Fish and Game Commission office, Merchants' Exchange building, San Francisco, or from County Clerks at all county seats.

"For the accommodation of the people, application blanks for licenses may be obtained at the principal cities and towns outside of the county seats from Justices of the Peace, Postmasters, or Express Agents. The law provides that 'Every person who hunts, pursues or kills any of the wild birds or animals, excepting predatory birds or animals, without first procuring a license therefor is guilty of a misdemeanor.'

" 'Every person having a license who while hunting, refuses to exhibit the same upon demand of any officer authorized to enforce the Fish and Game laws, or any peace officer, is guilty of a misdemeanor.'

"Citizens of California must pay $1.00 a year for a license; citizens of the United States, not bona fide residents of California, must pay $10.00. Any person not a citizen of the United States (aliens) must pay $25.00. First papers or 'Declaration of intention' to become citizens, are insufficient; they must have their final papers before they are legally entitled to the $1.00 license.

"The season for hunting doves opens July 15th, and closes October 15th; bag limit, twenty in one day.

"Season for hunting deer opens August 1st, and closes November 1st; limit, two bucks in one season $50.00 fine for killing does or fawns.

"Season for hunting ducks, black sea brant, rail, curlew, plover, opens October 1st, and closes February 15th; bag limit, twenty in one day.

"Season for hunting Desert or Valley quail, opens October 1st, and closes February 1st; bag limit twenty in one day. Unlawful to kill mountain quail or grouse before September 1st, 1911.

"Season for hunting Wilson snipe opens October 1st and closes April 1st; bag limit, twenty in one day.

"Season for hunting tree squirrels opens September 1st, and closes January 1st; bag limit, twelve in one season."

Next Thursday, June 24th, the M. E. Ladies Aid Society will be entertained by Mrs. Lee at the church parlors. All are most cordially invited to be present.

Suit for Partition of Property

A suit asking the court for the partition of a big ranch in the Sonoma Valley, estimated to be worth $75,000, was commenced in the Superior Court on Wednesday by Josephine Kiser against Catherine Kennedy et al., and Mortimer Smith, as executor of the last will and testament of Elizabeth Ann Kennedy McNeill. Robert A. Poppe and Allison B. Ware and Philip Ware are the attorneys for the plaintiffs. The partition of the property is among a lot of heirs.

A CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ORGANIZED HERE

Fred. T. Duhring, President, and An Executive Committee of Nine to Rule its Destinies

A Chamber of Commerce was organized here on Friday evening of last week with a membership of forty.

F. T. Duhring was elected President and A. Pinelli, Vice-President. An Executive Committee of nine was selected to shape the policies of the new organization for future usefulness as follows: J. K. Bigelow, E. T. Allen, Robt. P. Hill, F. W. Dobbel, Capt. H. E. Boyes, Geo. W. Reed, M. E. Cummings, Carl Dresel, Jesse Prestwood.

The organization was perfected in the new City Hall in the presence of the North of Bay Counties Association, embracing representatives from the Chambers of Commerce of Santa Rosa, Napa, Petaluma and other nearby towns to the number of twenty-four.

After a meeting of the North of Bay Counties Association and the organization of Sonoma's new civic body, the members and their invited guests adjourned to the Toscano Hotel, where mine host Ciucci served one of his famous menus.

At the next meeting of the new organization a Secretary will be chosen and its policies outlined.

There is much work ahead for the new organization and its future usefulness will depend in a great measure on its officers and executive committee.

The Santa Rosa Bank has levied an assessment of $10 per share upon its capital stock.

G. H. Roberts was examined on a charge of insanity on Wednesday and was committed to the Napa State Hospital for treatment.

The will of the late Mrs. Harriet L. Hays of Petaluma was filed for probate in the Superior Court on Monday, by Wilfred B. Hays, executor named therein. The property is valued at over three thousand dollars. Mrs. Hays leaves the whole of her property to her children. Judge R. F. Crawford is the attorney for the estate.

Miss Mary McCormick, an eighteen-year-old girl of Guerneville, while bathing in the Russian river on Friday of last week, was seized with cramps and sank to the bottom of the treacherous stream. Sol Pincher, a visitor from the metropolis, saw the girl sink and plunged into the river and brought the all but drowned girl to the surface. She was unconsciour when dragged to the banks of the stream and remained so for two hours.

Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition

Twenty Southern Pacific Passenger agents from all parts of the Pacific System visited the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition one day last week and were unanimous in their praise of all that they saw. It is a wonder—unique among all similar expositions. It tells a big story to people of all this nation, a true story of what there is to be found today in Alaska and the great Northwest. Every building was ready on the opening day—June 1st—and flags were flying and bands playing, just as they will continue until the closing on October 15th. The Exposition as it stands represents an investment of about ten million dollars. The Forestry building, made of monster timber from Washington forests, is the most remarkable of all the buildings, while the Alaska exhibit tells in detail of the country that has yielded two hundred and ninety-six million dollars worth of products in the past thirty years. The buildings and grounds are remarkably well arranged so that one can get about easily without weariness and all the details are most artistic in conception.

No one should fail to visit the Exposition if able to do so. The Southern Pacific Co. publishes elsewhere in these columns a remarkably low round trip rate to and from the Exposition, which will hold good until September 30.

Carving Scissors.

"I thought I knew all about scissors," said the man. "I had seen tailors' scissors for cutting heavy cloth, dressmakers' scissors for cutting flimsy fabrics and lace and still other scissors for cutting paper, finger nails, grapevines, all kinds of metals and even for shearing sheep, but in spite of that wide knowledge of scissors I was puzzled when I saw the large, peculiarly shaped pair of scissors lying in the showcase.

"'What are these scissors for?' I asked the clerk.

"'Carving meat,' he said. 'With scissors of this kind carving becomes mere child's play.'

"'I never saw anybody use them,' said I.

"'Nobody does use them,' said the clerk—'that is, only a very few. In Europe carving scissors are popular because they cut right through meat, gristle, bone and all, but it takes a little practice to learn to manipulate the things, and nobody in this country has patience enough for that.'"—Exchange.

The Talking Pots.

"Yes, these pots of mine are all right," said the potter. "They don't talk, though."

"No pots do."

"Don't they? Look here."

He took from the shelf a strange, crude pot daubed yellow and blue that had the shape of a duck. He filled it with water; then he poured the water out again. "Quack, quack, quack!" said the pot distinctly. Every gurgle was a distinct quack. "There's art for you," said the potter. "Every gurgle of that duck pot is a quack. Wonderful Aztec art! And I have an Aztec pig pot that grunts like a pig and a dog pot that barks like a dog. Wonderful chaps, these Aztec potter fellows! I wish I knew their secret. Imagine an Aztec banquet," he said after a pause. "Pots filled, you know, with wine. And every time you pour yourself a drink 'Quack!' go the ducks. 'Bowwow!' go the dogs. Regular pandemonium!"—New York Press.

The Light of the Firefly.

When man will attain the perfect vacuum, then the rude ether blush of the electric light bulb will give forth many times more light, purified and heatless, soft and healing, as the light of the stars, penetrating as the sun. An examination of the firefly when emitting flames or light shows bodily movements that cannot be understood to mean anything else than vacuum producing. The lights are always seen in the vacuum sack on the back. Immediately before emitting light the insect will flatten the body, draw the legs in, droop the head, seemingly contracting in all directions; then with the relaxation come the flame and light. The bodies of the glowworm and firefly always are transparent when filled with flame. The blades of grass or other debris are seen plainly through the bodies. Here are cases of nature dealing with X rays.—Chicago Tribune.

How Marshall Field Made Money.

In the early eighties, when the First National bank of Wallawalla was not as big as it is now, I pretty nearly had my breath taken away one day by a good looking stranger hailing from Chicago. He threw a letter of credit for $80,000 from a Chicago bank on my desk and quietly said, "Can you cash that?" I looked him over once or twice, made a quick estimate of all the loose cash I thought we could scrape up and said: "Yes. How do you want it?" He gave a smile, sat down and said, "I think I'll take it in land." In a month's time, as his authorized agent, I bought about 30,000 acres of cheap railroad land for my Chicago friend, taking the deeds in my name at his request, paying an average of $2.65 an acre. He cleared over $1,000,000 on this one deal. His name was Marshall Field.—Senator Ankeny's Reminiscences in Leslie's Weekly.

In Great Luck.

"I have been looking over my financial operations," said Mr. Easigo. "I must say they are more successful than usual."

"Have you been making large profits?"

"No. I don't expect anything like that."

"But you say you were successful?"

"Comparatively successful. During the month I have loaned money to five friends, and only three of them have quit speaking to me."—Washington Star.

The Editor's Sally.

City Editor—What do you mean by saying in this robbery story that "Brown was knocked down and relieved of a hundred dollars?" Were you ever robbed yourself? New Reporter—No, sir. City Editor—That accounts for it. If you'd been robbed you wouldn't describe the loss of a hundred dollars as a relief.—St. Louis Republic.

His Line of Study.

"My boy is undecided about what collegiate course to take."

"Um!"

"What would you advise?"

"That depends. Does he want to build up his back muscles or his wind?"—Kansas City Independent.

Cheaper.

Servant—Please, sir, missus wants you to send for the plumber, 'cos she's dropped her diamond ring down the bath pipe. Mr. Nuriche—Tell your mistress not to be ridiculous. I'll buy her another diamond ring! — London Mail.

Snow fell in Europe for forty days in 1434.

HE COMPROMISED.

A Story John B Gough Told In His Temperance Lectures.

John B Gough, the temperance lecturer, was noted as a story teller and his stories were always well suited to his argument. W. A. Mowry in his "Recollections of a New England Educator" recalls one of them:

Compromise, compromise! What does compromise mean? I will tell you. A colored man met a friend one day and said:

"Sambo, Sambo, do you know dat toder night I was sorely tempted. You know I used to steal. Well, since I j'ined de church I stopped stealing, but you know Mr Jonsing's shoe store. Well, toder night I was in dat shoe store, and I looked on de shelf and I see a pair of boots, jes de nicest pair of boots jes my size, No. 14.

"Dere was de debil, and he say, 'Take 'em, take em. Den de Lord say, 'Let 'em alone; dat's stealin.' But I wanted dem boots; mine all out at de bottom and sides. Dere was de debil and me, and we both say, 'Take em.' But de Lord say, 'Don't you take em; dat's stealin.' Now, dere was a clear majority of two against one.

"Jes den Mr Jonsing he leeb de store, and he leeb me all alone. Den de debil say, 'Take em quick and skedaddle. I could take dem boots and chuck 'em under my coat and go right away an Mr Jonsing would neber know nottin about it. But, bress de Lord, I stood de temptation! I compromised and took a pair of shoes instead."

Costly Law Robes.

An English judge's outfit in the way of robes imposes a heavy tax upon the newly appointed judge, although the cost is not nearly so great as it was in the early days of Queen Victoria. Then it was the custom for the law luminaries to attend court functions in figured damask silk gowns, with costly lace bands and ruffles. Thesiger, a celebrated legal dignitary of that day, is said on one occasion to have spent £100 on bands alone. The lord chancellor's robes cost something like £150, and even a judge's stockings are an expensive item. The wardrobe of a judge costs anything from £500 to £600, and if the newly fledged "my lord" is attached to the king's bench division he will require five gowns, a girdle, a scarf, a casting hood, a black cap, a three cornered cap, a beaver hat, a cocked hat, a silk hat, lace bands and two full court suits, swords, etc., to keep up the majesty of the law.—London Globe.

What They Said.

"Did the girls say anything when they heard of my engagement?" she asked, with a little curiosity.

"Very little," was the reply of her dearest friend.

"But they said something?"

"Oh, yes; they said something."

"Well, what was it?"

"Well, most of them merely exclaimed, 'At last!'"

There was a pause, and then she asked:

"Well, what did some of the others say?"

"One of them said, 'Who'd have thought it?' Another, 'Will wonders never cease?' And a third"—

"Oh, never mind the rest," interrupted the fiancee. "I never did have much curiosity."

Was He Delirious?

"Almost every man," says a Baltimore specialist, "learns sooner or later to think of his doctor as one of his best friends, but this fact does not hinder the world from laughing at the profession.

"'How is our patient this morning?' asked a physician, a fellow graduate of mine, of a patient's brother.

"'Oh, he's much worse,' came from the other in a tone of dejection. 'He's been delirious for several hours. At 3 o'clock he said, "What an old woman that doctor of mine is!" and he hasn't made a rational remark since.'"—Lippincott's.

A Rising Fall.

A certain member of the British government who was admittedly a great failure was being discussed by two of his colleagues.

"And now," concluded one, "they want to make him a peer!"

"No," said the other, with greater acumen; "they want to make him disappear."

Taking Chances.

Mother—Johnny, your Uncle Henry will be here for dinner, and you must have your face and hands washed. Small Johnny—Yes, mamma, but s'posin' somethin' happens and he don't come, what then?—Exchange.

Not So Exacting.

"So you're a butcher now?"

"Yes," explained the former dry goods clerk. "The ladies don't try to match spareribs or steak."—Kansas City Journal.

If a chameleon becomes blind it loses its power to change its hue and remains a blackish color.
